Bay tree ordinance tabled, then okayed

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council approved a tree protection ordinance Wednesday after putting it on hold Tuesday night so that additional requested language could be inserted.

Council chairman Charles Scianna opened the discussion of the ordinance by saying the council had decided to limit protection to two trees, the live oak and the southern magnolia. In the original proposal, the ordinance would have protected live oaks, southern magnolias, sweetbays, sweetgums and red maples that have a caliper (the diameter at 36 inches above the ground) of eight inches or a circumference of 25 inches.

In addition to eliminating three tree species from the list, the council also changed the caliper/circumference requirements to eight inches/25 inches for the southern magnolia and 12 inches/37.62 inches for the live oak.

Attorney Michael Haas, speaking on behalf of Coast Electric, asked the council to add language ensuring that power companies which have utility easements can trim or remove trees on those easements that threaten power lines. Scianna said he thought the ordinance already covered that situation, but the council would be glad to add the language anyway.

Another request for added language met with resistance from Scianna. Franya Ethridge asked the council to insert a provision that a replacement tree survive 12 months before it can be considered a successful replacement.

Scianna said the council does not want to burden the ordinance with unnecessary language, and pointed out that the ordinance already affords a replacement tree the same protection as the tree it replaced. However, Ethridge and others maintained that language still does not require the person replacing the tree to ensure to the best of his or her ability the

Cable wars

Futurevision seeks local franchise; MultiVision against company's advent

BY TRACI BONNEY

Representatives of MultiVision and Futurevision waged a cable TV war Tuesday night before a capacity audience at the Bay St. Louis City Hall.

Local residents attending the meeting to voice opinions about ordinance matters waited two hours before having an opportunity to speak. More than an hour of that time was consumed by spokesmen for incumbent company MultiVision, challenger Futurevision and consultant Norville D. Reece of Kane Reece Associates Inc., which was retained by Multi-Vision to conduct a study on the impact of a second cable television company in Hancock County.

Futurevision, a Hattiesburg company, has made overtures to both the Bay St. Louis and Waveland city governments to secure a non-exclusive franchise for a second cable company. Futurevision representative Allen Morris has offered the cities a proposal of 40 basic channels for $16 to $18 a month, plus about five additional pay channels.

MultiVision currently offers 27 basic channels for $17.95 and five pay channels, with more pay channels planned.

Reece said his firm studied several aspects of the current situation, including the potential impact on the customers, MultiVision as the established company, and the municipality, among others.

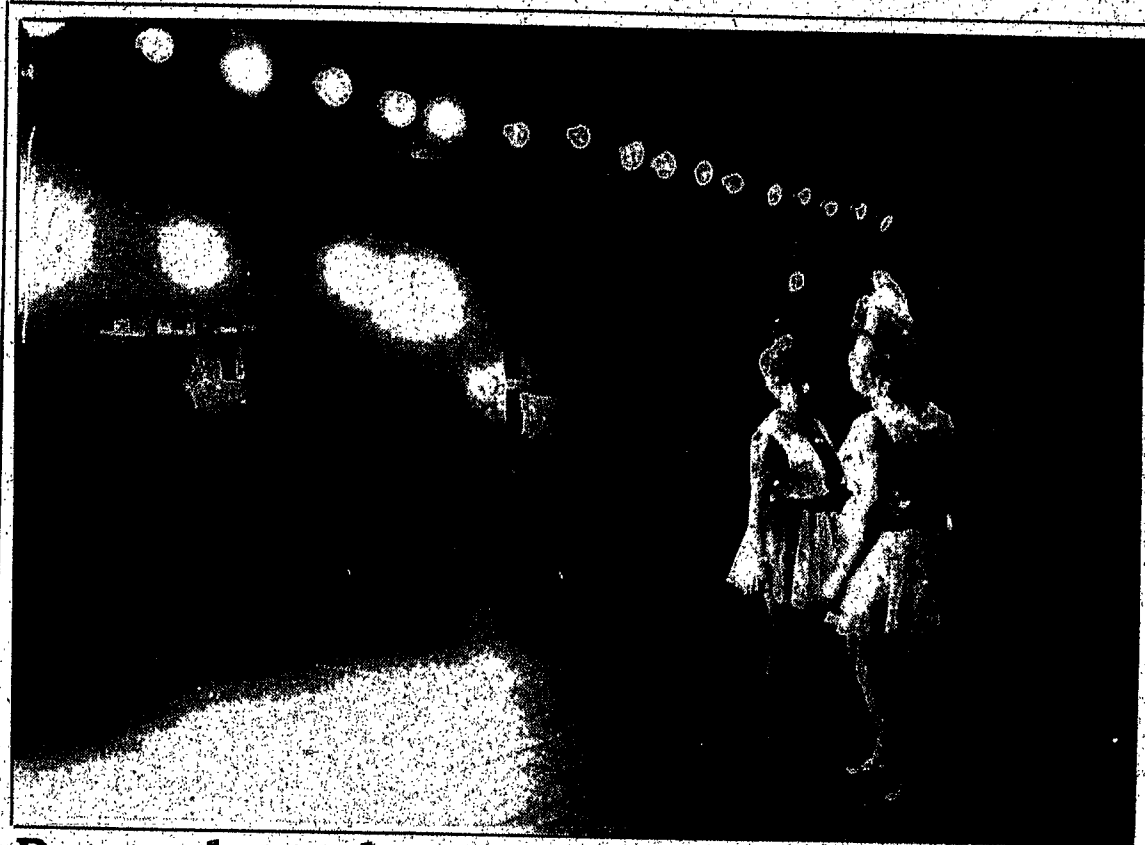

According to Reece, MultiVision is a good system although not the most modern. It has lower rates and offers more channels than comparable systems elsewhere in the nation.

Garden club to observe Arbor Day at the track

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club announced that its annual Arbor Day observance will be February 22 at 1:30 p.m. at the Hancock County Walking Track on Hwy. 90.

The activities planned include the dedication of the flag pole, planting a tree donated by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club and one donated by American Waste and Pollution Control Division of Waste Management. This will be followed by presentation of certificates of registration and name plaques of eligible oak trees registered in Hancock County. The public is invited.

County and parents pull together to prepare park

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County Dixie League members, Supervisor Lisa Coward and county road superintendent Sam Cuevas joined minds Monday night to work out a plan to make the Necaise Crossing ball park functional by game time in two weeks.

The parents reported only two of their games (Harrison-Hancock Dixie Youth League) in the 1990 season were played at the Necaise park because of lack of adequate facilities. Many parents have pulled their children from the program and registered them elsewhere.

Cuevas assured the 15 parents present that the fields would be ready for play.

"We have two more days of work left to complete the field," said Cuevas. "As soon as the weather permits, the infield will be graded, and cement will be laid by the dug outs and by the benches." Coward agreed to look into the cost of supplying the parents with materials to build a concession stand and adjoining restroom facilities.

The parents agreed to give up their hopes for lights on the larger field for this year, since the last estimate for lights was considered 'extravagant.'

Bids for the lights had to be

No body found in reported jump

BY TRACI BONNEY

Investigation of an alleged suicide attempt yielded no body or other concrete evidence Monday, according to Bay St. Louis Police Department Investigator David Parker.

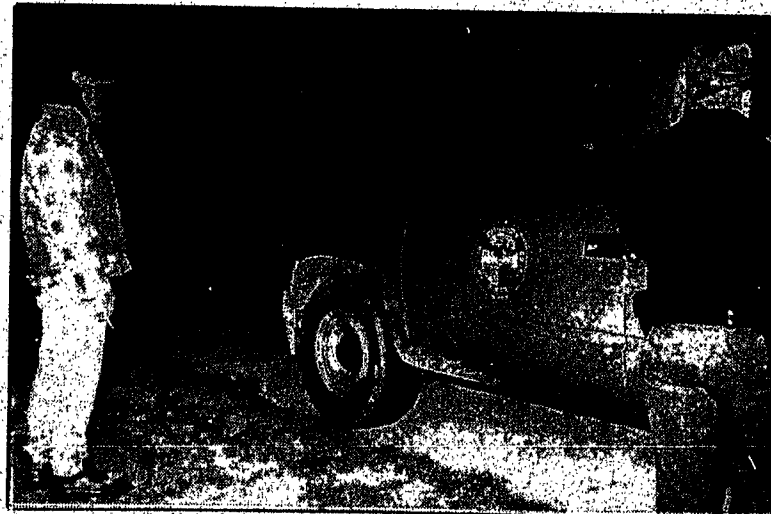

Parker said the department received a report from a motorist between 5 and 6 p.m. Monday that a man 25 to 30 years old, wearing a red and black plaid shirt and red shorts, had jumped from the Bay bridge near the first light pole beside the eastbound lane.

There was sand underneath the bridge where the man is said to have jumped, and deep footprints were seen in the sand, but Parker said this did not necessarily indicate the man had actually jumped.

The Bureau of Marine Resources assisted in the investigation.

Parker said the incident occurred near the time of the police department's shift change, which contributed to the large number of law agency vehicles at the scene. He explained that officers going on and off duty saw the flashing lights and stopped to check. Other emergency vehicles arrived at the scene for the same reason, he added.

Bay-Waveland school board discusses accelerated classes

BY TRACI BONNEY

The academic future of local sixth grade students in accelerated classes came into question Monday night at the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board meeting.

Antoinette Magnon, the parent of a student in Bay Middle School's accelerated classes, took the floor and urged school board members to continue the classes into the junior high level for those who will be there next year.

"We have to keep feeding these kids and not hold back on them," she said.

Magnon explained that she is concerned that sixth grade students currently learning seventh grade level subjects will lose their interest in school if they can't continue to progress next year. She said the program does not necessarily have to be self-contained, as it is now.

Superintendent Robert Magee and board president Chuck Benvenuti assured Magnon the board is considering the matter.

The board also discussed whether or not to renew the athletic director's position for the 1991-1992 school year. Benvenuti said he

Child abuse prevention Morning Edition subject

BY TRACI BONNEY
Child abuse prevention will be the topic of this month's Morning Edition Coffee.

The coffee, which will start at 7:30 a.m. Friday at the Hancock Civic Center on Longfellow Road, will feature speaker Dr. Edward R. North Jr., founder of the National Exchange Club Foundation for the Prevention of Child Abuse. The coffee is co-sponsored by the Hancock County Exchange Club and Moore & Powell CPA, and hosted by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

North began laying the groundwork for the National Exchange Club Foundation for the Prevention of Child Abuse during the club's 61st Annual Convention in 1979.

The Jackson physician urged Exchangers to adopt child abuse prevention as a national project after witnessing firsthand the effects of child abuse. He then served as the Foundation's first president on the board of trustees.

Since the Foundation's beginning, it has grown to a network of 61 Exchange Club Centers in more than 30 states and Puerto Rico. Locally, the Hancock County Exchange Club and four other Coastal Exchange Clubs sponsor the South Mississippi Exchange Clubs Family Child Center.

The center, with its main office located in Gulfport, provides services to Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Stone County residents and professionals working in the area of child abuse prevention. This center is the only one in the south Mississippi area that provides child abuse prevention service programs to families and professionals.

In Hancock County, the Center's satellite office at 331 Shieldsboro Square has implemented several programs, including:

—the use of parent aide volunteers who work with families in need of help;

—a multidisciplinary child abuse team which helps coordinate available services to child victims and assists in coordinating criminal investigations between social service professionals and law enforcement agents when appropriate;

—a Child Victim/Witness Orientation program to victims of child abuse prior to their courtroom appearance, which helps prepare the children for their time in court (this program is the first of its type in Mississippi);

—community education programs focused on child abuse prevention, and training sessions for day care center staffs and school personnel on child abuse issues.

Refresh your career skills.

Judy Brokl graduated from a nursing program in 1985. After working 4-5 months in Memorial's telemetry unit, she left to practice nursing in a Chemical Dependency setting for three and a half years. "But," Judy said, "I missed the acute care scene." So, she enrolled in the Reorientation Program at Memorial. RNs who have been out of acute care practice refresh their skills to re-enter the hospital setting and are able to advance their careers through Memorial's Clinical Advancement Program (CAP).

Memorial recognizes not only the professionalism of nurses—but their need to share in important decisions governing nursing practice at MHG. That's why Memorial has two very special programs in place to give the professional RN power to improve the care-giving environment.

Through CAP and Shared Governance, the nurse working at the bedside can continue to increase his/her level of knowledge, experience and involvement in professional activities as well as exercise a real voice in the management of nursing practice. Through CAP, the registered nurse advances through four levels of clinical expertise, receiving recognition at each level. In Shared Governance, the staff nurse can gain decision-making power through several nursing councils.

The next Reorientation program at Memorial is scheduled for April 1, 1991. To enroll in this program, or if you are interested in other nursing positions at Memorial, contact Susan Smith, RN, Professional Recruiter, Memorial Hospital at Gulfport, P.O. ## KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

Green thumbs — or all thumbs?

If you've ever been in the Sea Coast Echo office, you may have noticed the numerous plants. In fact, the retail advertising area looks like part of a plant nursery exploded in it.

I don't know about you, but I'm not much of a plant expert. Sure, the greenery on my desk is flourishing, but I'm not about to take credit for it. In fact, my ignoring it is probably the second-best thing that has happened to that plant (Ellis' plant food is the best thing).

I used to joke that my nickname should be "Plantkiller." If it's green, it's alive and you don't want it to be, bring it to me. It won't survive long.

If it needs sunshine, I'll give it darkness; if it needs shade, I'll broil it. If it needs water, I'll forget to water it; if it doesn't need water, I'll drown it.

Ever kill a cactus? I have.

Now, don't get me wrong. I don't do all this on purpose. I have better things to do with my time than deliberately eliminate oxygen sources from this increasingly polluted planet of ours. I'm just not good with plants; that's all.

My nemesis in the plant world is the African violet. I can kill one of those just by looking at it. When I approach a violet to water it, I can see it shrinking away, lifting up its leaves in an attempt to defend itself. I can almost hear it say: "Oh, no! Not you! I've heard about you! You killed my cousin last year, and my brother the year before!"

"Stay away from me, you murderer! I know your tricks! Keep that water away from me! I know what you're up to! Think you can fry my roots, don't you? Well, forget it! I'm not about to fall for —

"AAAAHHHHHH!!!!!"

Next thing you know, I'm standing there holding an empty watering container, and there are wilted plant parts hanging over the sides of the pot.

It's sad, because I really like violets. I think they're pretty. Unfortunately, my liking violets seems to be somewhat similar to the way kittens like insects. The furry little felines tend to like things to death — literally.

The only plant I've never been able to kill is a wandering Jew — and I've tried. Those plants are incredibly persistent. They may die at the roots, but the rest of the plant keeps going. In fact, the rest of the plant will send out new roots — into the carpet, the walls, etc. — if you don't catch it.

I guess most ivies are persistent though — like the poison variety.

Hey, wait a minute! This could actually be beneficial. Given my plant-killing ability, I could probably rid you of your crabgrass, if you have any.

It won't hurt to try, anyway. It certainly won't hurt me; it definitely won't hurt you; and it may actually eliminate that unsightly stuff.

However, I can't guarantee the safety of the rest of your lawn....

Cable

Speaking of the rivalry that will be generated if a second company comes into the area, Reece said such competition is normally good for companies, but not in all categories — electric, gas, and cable television companies, among others.

He explained that there have been more than 100 overbuild franchises in the 40-year history of cable television, but only about 10 are still in operation and only about 50 new ones are under consideration. An overbuild franchise is one that overlaps an existing franchise.

"Most overbuilds don't last," Reece said. "Most of the ones that do usually are large companies that are subsidized by their parent companies."

"Generally, having two franchises in one area is not economically feasible."

The cost of equipment and the limited coverage areas are problems both companies face when a second one moves in, and the smaller the area to be covered by the companies, the bigger those problems can be, he commented.

For the customers, the initial effects of a second company are beneficial, with lower rates being the main benefit, Reece said. However, he added, the customer also ends up with double the headaches — two people calling to solicit business, two people knocking on the door, two cable lines being run to the house, etc.

In the end, even the initial benefit of lower rates will be at risk, especially if one company goes bankrupt or sells out to the other company. Reece explained that both companies, if both continue to operate, would eventually have to raise their rates to continue making a profit, or if only one stays in business, it will still have to raise rates to remain solvent.

Another problem cited by Reece is the aesthetic appeal of the city, which would be adversely affected by more cable lines being run along power poles and into homes.

"Just from our initial analysis, it would not be prudent for the city to grant a second franchise until the city solicits more information," Reece concluded.

MultiVision attorneys Joel Blass and Henry Laird reiterated Reece's comment urging the council to study the matter further before making a decision.

Morris spoke briefly on behalf of Futurevision. "We are simply offering Bay St. Louis the same alternative we offered in Wiggins. The people of Wiggins had only nine channels available when we moved in, and they were paying $15.95 a month for them. Now we offer them more channels for the same price."

"We're just asking for an opportunity."

After some discussion by the council members, the council tabled its first motion to adopt the ordinance granting a franchise to Futurevision and set up a workshop meeting for Wednesday, Feb. 27, 6:30 p.m., with representatives of the two cable companies so that questions can be answered.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A flag pole dedication is scheduled for 1 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) at the Hancock County Walking Track on U.S. 90 in front of the Hancock Medical Center. Improvements are continuing at the Walking Track, and that is good as the facility is much used by the public.

The flag pole has a rather interesting history, as I have been able to gather.

It was originally at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, donated by Hancock Bank. It was replaced at the Yacht Club and now has been donated to the Walking Track by Hancock Bank.

Meanwhile, it was arranged with Sheriff Ronald Peterson that trustees clean and repaint the flag pole. Mississippi Power Company helped with the placement of the pole, so the number of those involved in the project continues to increase.

The Hancock County Parks & Recreation Department, Chamber of Commerce and Bay-Waveland Garden Club have also gotten together for the landscaping of the facility, which is a continuing project. GE Plastics has also done considerable work on the landscaping, not to mention the public and the Bay Rotary Club's Interact Club at Bay Senior High.

We now have a new county agent, Randy Smith, who will be helping, and there will be tree planting in observance of Arbor Day at the track on Friday.

It is always good to see so many individuals, groups, organizations, political bodies and industry involved in a project that is for the benefit of so many.

The Hancock County Walking Track is one of the most popular projects in the county.

I hope to see you Friday at the flag pole dedication.

I can remember Irvin Prevou from many years back when we attended Rip University (St. Stanislaus Back School), even though he was several grades ahead of me in school. One must remember, at Rip University there were two classrooms, two teachers and seven grades. Anyway, Irvin's brother, Henry Prevou brought by a copy of a feature story in the Chattanooga News-Free Press about his brother's business in that town this past Friday.

Irvin and his wife Dorris are owners of Mr. Trophy in Chattanooga and have created one of America's hottest items to show support for our troops in the Persian Gulf. The Prevous designed a bracelet which is engraved "Operation Desert Storm" on one line and "Till They Come Home," on the second line. A third line can be added with the name of a service man or woman. The story about the business was aired on Cable News Network (CNN), and orders were so heavy the Prevous had to add several new employees.

Orders are pouring in from all across the nation. Patriotism is strong across this nation during this crisis, and I am glad to see so many Americans in support of our troops.

Drinking And Driving

A Deadly Mix

Drinking is a factor in 55 percent of all fatal motor accidents. Alcohol contributes to 21,000 fatal accidents and 320,000 injury accidents annually. Death and injury was not the only price paid — alcohol related motor vehicle accidents cost $12 billion.

Alcohol and driving are a deadly mix. The solution is simple. Don't drink and drive.

Corporate manager of the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant, now under construction at the National Space Technology Laboratories, issued an appeal Wednesday afternoon to local businessmen to offer services to assist production. The official also pledged to hire employees for the plant locally. The final stage of the plant's three-phase manufacturing operation, bringing to full production capability, is slated for early 1984.

Local fishermen say fishing is not so good in the Jourdan River these days. In fact, they say it's not half as good as it was 20 or 30 years ago. State Bureau of Fisheries and Wildlife Chief Barry Freeman of Jackson disagrees. Freeman said the fishing probably never was good and is still not very good.

On Monday, the Bay St. Louis Fire Department responded to a call from Garco's Grocery, corner Main and Second Streets. A fire was quickly extinguished with little damage, and it was thought to have been the work of robbers as it was after closing time and some evidence pointed to this. James Parker, who works at night at the Bobby Anne Bakery, discovered the fire on his way home and immediately gave the alarm to City Night Watchman Yairin, who turned in the alarm at once and brought the fire department to the immediate rescue which saved it from destruction. The building is one of the oldest mercantile structures in the city, if not the oldest frame house in town.

As a climax to the great work they have been doing all season, the St. Stanislaus College basketball team defeated the strong New Orleans Boys High School by a remarkable score of 102 to 7. In doing so, Bay St. Louis is the proud possessor of a team which in this game broke three southern and probably one national record. The first record of scoring 102 points, which is by far the largest number of points ever negotiated by any prep-school in the entire South in a game with another prep-school. It is all the more remarkable inasmuch as New Orleans High School is well known to always possess the strongest of teams in all branches of athletics, having no less than 900 boys to draw from, and those boys under the existing athletic system of the New Orleans Public School Athletic League do not enter high school green and undeveloped, have been taught the rudiments of the game in grammar grades by competent instructors. St. Stanislaus has some 45 big boys, a good many being new and inexperienced.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

School bus drivers don't deserve criticism they receive

To the Editor:

We have a very bad shortage of bus drivers. No one wants to drive a bus anymore.

People always complain, and the bus drivers we have people criticize. Believe me, you have to like to drive a bus in order to be a driver. It's not easy to drive a bus of 30 feet or longer.

At the same time, you have to make sure all students stay in their seats and make sure they keep quiet. You must stop them from standing up in the bus while it is moving; make sure they don't throw things and scream. Sometimes all of this will go on at the same time.

I believe every time a person criticizes a bus driver she or he should pass a test on driving a bus and help us with the shortage. That would eliminate some mistakes you'll claim we make. Some parents ask their children about our driving skills. We try to do the best we can. So please, remember, if you have never driven a bus, think twice before you complain.

Restriction of food shipments allows letters, videos to arrive

To the Editor:

We have received several calls requesting specific reasons as to why food shipments to the troops in Saudi Arabia are being (strongly) discouraged.

There is no official post office regulation prohibiting the shipment of food. However, there are several reasons why the public should comply with this request from the Pentagon.

Logistically, the food shipments are presenting a problem. This country has responded exceptionally in terms of showing their support to the troops. Not only are there yellow ribbons tied around everything from trees to buildings, communities are sending literally truck loads of food, clothes and goodies from home.

As a result, there is a tremendous backlog of mail.

Our troops are provided ample food and clothing for their tour of duty in Saudi Arabia. Where perhaps a favorite baked treat from home may lift the soldiers' spirits, what is of greater importance is the correspondence they receive from home.

We have been requested to limit shipments to letters, video tapes, etc.

Some individuals are sending inappropriate food items, such as meat, spoiling, or that are prohibited, such as alcohol; once again, presenting a problem for the mail service.

The public's cooperation with the request to restrict food shipments will benefit our troops. It will allow the really important mail to get through—letters from home and those they love—rather than a food shipment from an unknown.

Our Guard is finest with public's overwhelming support

To the Editor:

Mississippians have proven throughout history that when they are needed they respond.

The Mississippi National Guard has trained for many years to be ready and now we have been called. We have accepted the responsibility with pride and an eagerness to serve.

Mississippi has long been a leader nationally in numbers of National Guard troops. Our Air National Guard in Jackson was the first Air Guard unit in the nation to receive the C-141 Starlifter aircraft. They flew in support of Operation Just Cause in Panama, they ferried supplies to the victims of the Armenian earthquake, and they were one of the first reserve units in the nation to receive the call for Operation Desert Storm.

Our 155th Armored Brigade was the second National Guard organization in the nation to receive the M-1 Abrams tanks and the Bradley Fighting Vehicles. They were one of the first three National Guard combat units activated for Operation Desert Storm.

The reason Mississippi has the best equipment and is among the first called is simple: we have the best National Guard organization in the United States. The reason for this is also simple: the people of Mississippi support THEIR National Guard.

I want to sincerely thank the wonderful people of this state for the tremendous outpouring of support our activated units have received during this mobilization.

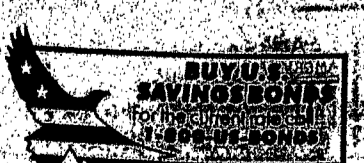

Our resolve has been solidified by the overwhelming support of the people of this great state. Towns have sponsored banquets, students have written letters, colleges have granted waivers, banks have limited or deferred interest payments, churches have offered up prayers, governing bodies have issued proclamations of support for our men and women, schools have loaned buses, companies large and small have donated food and supplies, and citizens have volunteered their time to help.

We are aware of the effect our mobilization has had on many businesses throughout the state which employ Guard members. The sacrifices you have made in support of the men and women of the Guard and in the interest of national unity are in equal importance as those sacrifices made by our soldiers.

We salute your patience, your understanding and your cooperation during this difficult period in the history of our state and nation.

We love you, Mississippi, and we plan to uphold the confidence you have bestowed upon your Mississippi National Guard.

Sincerely,
Charlie D. Brackeen
Brigadier General, MSARNG

"The present car tag fee is too much. The cost is being put on the car owner, whereas the sales tax would be more equitable. Everyone would share in the burden."

Thomas Winn Waveland

"I don't want to pay that (car tag increase). It's too much money. The sales tax is all right. For another way to raise money, I suggest they make stamps 30¢ and give the state the extra penny."

Tito Aponte Kiln

"As hard as times are right now, any increase would make me unhappy. As far as an alternate way, maybe increase taxes on non-essential items like TV's, microwaves, video games; a car you need for work."

Ellen Wilcox Bay St. Louis

"I don't mind the increases if they would just take the sales tax off of groceries. I hate paying taxes on groceries."

Ada Hartz Diamondhead

"I don't think they should raise car tag fees at all. The sales tax? No. I think 6 percent is fair enough. I think if we had a lottery it would help a lot."

Tammy Fillingame Bay St. Louis

"Car tags are too high to start with. Whoever introduced the way they charge for car tags should be found and shot. The sales tax increase might be more acceptable."

Bunk Gardner Waveland

"I'm against all taxes, all increases. They should cut costs instead."

Muriel Andry Shoreline Park

"I think car plates are far too high now. The sales tax increase isn't too bad, it only amounts to pennies. A lottery would help raise revenues. People would come from out-of-state for that."

Don Minas Bay St. Louis

"I don't like the increase in the taxes or the tags. Another source of revenue might be to have those over 65 years of age pay property tax or a percent of the property tax. There are a lot of people over 65 who can afford it."

Genevieve Yatalese Bay St. Louis

"I think the car tag increase is ridiculous. I can understand the sales tax increase, if they use it for things like roads or education."

Bobby Billings Shoreline Park

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Gulf Coast cooks, along with others of the South, are just about the "stuffiest"—I didn't say "stuffed"—cooks ever, probably because of the blessed abundance of fresh vegetables, along with all sorts of seafood, in addition to meats and chicken and all that!

I'm sure that we stuff more delicious treats—flounder, shrimp, onions, potatoes and so on, as well as chicken and even ham and chops and artichokes—than cooks anywhere else.

I was musing along these lines awhile ago, while stirring the skillet in which celery, green onions and onions and bell peppers and such were reaching a nice "turn" along with the "insides" of a couple of eggplants, into whose purply glossy shells I would shortly stuff the aromatic mixture.

Usually I halve the eggplants and dig out the contents of the shells, then set the shells aside while I chop and pre-cook the pulp along with the other vegetables and seasonings, for in this way of cooking the shells retain to a greater degree their purply hue and firmness. At other times, when I wish to eat the skin along with the contents, I halve and parboil or bake the eggplants beforehand. Here's:

SHRIMP-STUFFED EGGPLANT

2 eggplants, medium to large
4 green onions, with tops, finely chopped (or 1/2 cup chopped onion) or both
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 bay leaf
1 tsp. thyme
Pepper, salt as desired
2 Tbsp. chopped parsley
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 or 3 slices bread, moistened with water, then squeezed dry and crumbled
1 cup coarsely chopped shrimp (I prefer to use more)
1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
2 Tbsp. (or more) grated Parmesan cheese

As above, parboil the eggplant and set aside. Then, in a heavy pot (I use my cast iron Dutch oven) saute in a bit of oil or bacon drippings the onions, green onions and celery, adding the bay leaf, pepper and salt, and thyme.

Add the chopped eggplant, and cook the mixture for 20 minutes or so over low heat or until eggplant is soft. Mix in the bread, and gradually stir in the eggs, stirring all the while. Add the shrimp, (and be sure to remove the bay leaf, as always, lest someone choke on it). Pile the mixture into the eggplant shells, top with bread crumbs and grated cheese, dot with butter, and bake in a 350-degree oven for 20 minutes, until a nice brown atop. (Four servings).

You may substitute crabmeat, or chopped ham, or a mixture, for the shrimp, or cook the eggplant without additions of any sort. Still quite tasty! Just use your imagination and whatever's on hand.

Morning Stiffness: Arthritis Warning Sign #1

If your mornings start with joints that last more than 30 minutes, you may have a form of arthritis. And the earlier you start treatment, the better your chances are that the arthritis can be arrested... before it does permanent damage.

Musical comedy 'La Cage Aux Folles' is soon-to-be hit at Bay Little Theatre

Special to the Echo by T.H. (Doc) Toups
Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is celebrating its 45th anniversary this year, and members wanted to celebrate the occasion in spectacular style. With their latest production, La Cage Aux Folles, they have succeeded magnificently on both counts.

The gender-bender musical comedy, written by Harvey Fierstein, with music by Jerry Herman is set in St. Tropez, where longtime lovers George and Alban (played with elan by Ed Scanlan and Roy Aultman, respectively, preside over the transvestite nightclub La Cage Aux Folles. Club manager George and flamboyant performer Alban become involved in hilarious intrigues when George's straight son decides to take a wife.

Director Dr. Larry Heller explained that BSLTT had achieved a national precedent with this production, as it had not been previously attempted by any amateur theatre company.

Heller had to re-score the music and alter the script's blocking, as the original version called for a large orchestra and revolving stage—resources BSLTT simply does not possess. The changes only seem to enhance the play's intimate charm.

George's son, John Michael, is capably played by John Booda. As the harried groom-to-be, he is horrified by the prospect of his future in-laws discovering his father's unconventional lifestyle.

This writer will not divulge, to the uninitiated, the results of his attempts at concealment, though the high-camp camouflage forms the comedic core of much of the show.

Anne Maliaca Strom plays Ann, the fiancée, and her parents, the moralistic government minister Mr. Dindon and wife, Marie, are well-portrayed by Carl Danna and Carol Young.

Opening night, on Thursday the 25th, will be a benefit for the South Mississippi AIDS Task Force and the local PWA Project. A champagne and hors d'oeuvres reception is included in the opening night ticket price of $15.

The play will continue Feb. 22-23 and then again on March 1 and 2. Post opening tickets are $5 and available through Serenity Bookstore, 126 1/2 Main Street in Bay St. Louis, or by calling 467-1304. Reservations are strongly suggested, as some evenings have already been sold out.

Heller's assistant director is Eileen McCarren, and the music director is Kathleen Dodge. The large cast includes Joseph Overall as Jacob, George as Alban's man-servant and Dotie Overall as Jacqueline. The chorus line includes Larry Timmerman, Dave Reynolds, Bruce Pickett, Don George, Glenda Coss, Andora McNair, Sally Rodrigue and Katie Reynolds. Cast members number 24.

In rehearsal since before Christmas, the long weeks of preparation are evident. Notably, there are many strong performances by several cast members and absolutely no weak ones.

An audience favorite was a sketch where George is attempting to teach outrageous Alban more masculine mannerisms to deceive Ann's parents. The results, as described by "John Wayne acting like a little girl."

This afternoon, tomorrow, or certainly before next week, pick up your phone and call the number listed above for reservations. It's a call you will not regret!

ON ETV

DESEGREGATION

The story of the two-decade struggle against public school segregation is told in "The Road to Brown," airing at 6 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 24, on Mississippi ETV as part of public television's Black History Month.

In 1934, Charles Hamilton Houston, a little-known lawyer and dean of the Howard University school of law, first conceived the idea that legal segregation could be ended by targeting education.

Hancock Youth Court January statistics told

Special to the Echo
The Hancock County Youth Court has completed records for the month of January. During last month, the Youth Court collected $1,278 in fines and $315 in restitution.

Approximately $432 was paid out to victims of crimes committed by children under the jurisdiction of the court. The fine money is turned over to the treasurer of Hancock County to be deposited in the County General Fund.

Judge Michael Haas further added, during January the youth court had 39 delinquency referrals, 19 of which require petitions being filed. The remainder of those intakes were either handled with an informal adjustment, fined or warned, or any combination.

The youth court also handled 12 school related referrals. These children have excessive absences or behavior problems in the classroom. These referrals can be handled by various methods and are handled much in the same manner as the delinquency referrals.

Children referred to youth court can be placed on informal adjustment; referred to the court's Crises Education Program, the Sentenced to Read/Basic Skills for Employment Program, or referred to the youth services counselor for the more serious referrals.

The youth court docket for the month of January had 23 cases and 10 annual review cases. Each case had two separate adjudicatory hearings, where the child is adjudicated a delinquent child, child in need of supervision, neglected or abused.

Annual review cases are required by law, and the purpose for hearings is to review each case one year after the disposition hearing to determine if probation should continue or be closed. If a child is released from probation, or in the event of neglect or abuse cases, attempts are made to see what improvements have occurred since the official court hearing from the previous year.

The second half of the full court hearing is called the dispositional hearing. This is when the judge gives his order and its provisions, which could include commitment to the Training School.

For the month of January only one child was committed to the Training School.

Also, during the month of January, 80 informal adjustment cases were closed. The children on Informal Adjustment are ones who have not yet had to come to court formally because the charge or circumstances doesn't warrant such action.

An informal adjustment is one of the many tools used by the court to alleviate delinquency in the county. This is a "contract" signed by the child and the parents agreeing to certain provisions. If a child violates his informal agreement then he or she can be taken to court for a full hearing.

though the position had not benefitted the district and needed to be phased out, while Willie Bradley maintained the athletic director's position actually saves the district money by coordinating the purchases formerly made by coaches.

After much debate, the board approved for renewal a list of administrative positions, including that of the athletic director. The list was approved 4-1, with Benvenuti voting against it.

In other business, the board:

- approved the January claims docket and meetings minutes;
- approved three requests for use of school facilities;
- rejected bids for ballast, mop heads, tennis balls and athletic t-shirts;
- approved recommendations for a janitor and substitute bus driver;
- and granted a request for catastrophic leave for a cafeteria worker.

The board adjourned to March 11.

survival of the replacement tree.

Council attorney John Scalfide told Scianna the language could be easily inserted without burdening the ordinance, and showed him where the provision should be put.

The council decided to hold the ordinance's final adoption until 5:30 Wednesday at a recess meeting, at which time it was approved.

Other items addressed by the council included two zoning matters and two property cleanup deadlines. Clerk of council Mike Cuevas reminded the council that the deadline for the J. Alvin Triche property cleanup was Wednesday, and that the cleanup was not yet complete. At the insistence of J.G. Tranchina that something be done and after much discussion, the council authorized Cuevas to file an affidavit against Triche so that he would be cited for violation of the city's cleanup ordinances.

A citation would result in the setting of a court date, which would give Triche about two weeks to finish the cleanup work. If in that time the work is completed, the citation will be dropped. If it is not, Triche will be required to face a court appearance.

Cuevas also told the council that the deadline is Friday for resolution of the A & G Theater overhang problem, where a rotting eave has provided shelter for dozens of pigeons and caused a hazard for pedestrians on the sidewalk below the overhang. The council authorized Scalfide to take the necessary actions to resolve the problem if the building code violation has not been corrected by Friday.

Councilman Jim Thriffley also made a motion, which was passed, to have Carl Hodges cited for ordinance violations on his property at 345-Carroll Avenue, where numerous bicycles and lawnmowers in various conditions are visible, and to initiate the proper procedures for requiring Hodges to clean the property.

In zoning matters, the council tabled a variance application from the Roques family and asked the couple to produce a certified property survey by the March 5 meeting.

The council also set a Wednesday, March 13, 6:30 p.m., public hearing for a re-zoning application made by Paul Vegas for land behind the Hwy. 90 city post office. Vegas had asked that part of the land be re-zoned from Residential 1 to Commercial 3, while the other part of the land would remain R-1 and be sold to Eastern Star for the construction of a lodge.

The council set up the public hearing because of a petition signed by several property owners within a 300-foot radius of the property Vegas wants re-zoned. Although the petition was not certified at the time of the meeting because it was submitted only shortly before the meeting started, the council accepted the petition into the minutes and voted to set up the hearing contingent on the petition's certification.

Senate update

Tax package passed

BY TRACI BONNEY

A "heavily amended" Senate tax package passed Tuesday and is headed for the state House of Representatives, according to Sen. Vic Frankiewicz.

He said the package, which passed by only two votes more than the 32 needed, will raise the general sales tax from six percent to 6.25 percent; will raise sales tax by one-quarter percent on other items; will tax newspaper sales; and will delete the exemption on state and local income tax for those who itemize.

Frankiewicz said the last item will affect mostly those people in upper income levels.

The package will also call for some state offices, such as the Insurance Department and the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, to rely more on fees than taxes for their operating expenses; will levy fees on certain business transactions with the Secretary of State's Office; and will call for extra assessments on criminal fines.

One proposed tax that was deleted was the cigarette tax. "One of the most important parts of the bill, which has nothing to do with taxes, is the mandatory reduction of state employees. It was extended from five percent over two years to a full 10 percent over four years," Frankiewicz said. "This will return the state government to the size it was about five years ago."

The proposed tax package, if voted into law, will raise about $26 million for the rest of fiscal year 1991 and about $106 million for fiscal year 1992.

"Those sound like large figures, but that's just about enough to let us hold the line without cutting into education," Frankiewicz commented.

Another provision of the package will return about $30 million in revenues, to be split equally, to counties and public schools. Frankiewicz said he is opposed to giving such a large gift to the counties and schools without the state's asking some improvement in the systems. However, he added, it will be required that about half the money be used to offset taxes.

"The package still has a lot of work and a lot of debate to go," he commented. "But what is on the table now gives us a starting point, something to work with to develop a package that will work for everyone."

ON PATROL

GRAND LARCENY

Investigator David Parker of the Bay St. Louis Police Department reported Tuesday the arrests of two suspects on charges of grand larceny.

Parker said Earl Booth, 42, and Anthony Farris, 33, both of Pass Christian, were arrested and charged with grand larceny in connection with the reported theft and stripping last year of a 1977 Toyota Celica belonging to Earl Terry and Karen Haack.

The suspects have been released on bonds of $2,000 each, according to Parker.

CAPITAL RAPE/STATUTORY RAPE

Chris "Red" Weaver, 18, of Bay St. Louis, was arrested Sunday on charges of capital rape and statutory rape, according to Investigator David Parker of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Parker said no bond has been set in the case, which involved a juvenile victim and is still under investigation.

BURGLARY OF AN OCCUPIED DWELLING

Bay St. Louis Police Department Investigator David Parker reported Tuesday the arrest of Cedric Walker, 19, of Bay St. Louis on a charge of burglary of an occupied dwelling.

Parker said Walker was arrested after being identified by the occupant of 708 Shieldsboro, who awoke and saw Walker leaving the residence. Parker explained that Walker entered the residence by opening a window next to the front door and unlocking the door, then took $36.50 in cash from a bedside table.

Walker is in the Hancock County jail on $10,000 bond, Parker added.

Subsequent to his arrest, Walker was charged with possession of crack cocaine with intent to distribute, according to Hancock County Metro Narcotics Task Force Director Glen Strong.

Strong said a bond of $5,000 has been set for the additional charge. He added that Investigator William Pepperman, who represents Waveland in the task force, is in charge of the investigation, with Bay St. Louis Police Department Investigator Terry Eley and Hancock representative Strong assisting.

Wildcat baseball roster includes Power, Seymour

Pearl River College's 1991 baseball Wildcats are expected to be slower on the bases and they will probably not have the homerun power of the past few years but, don't count on them not making a fourth consecutive trip to the state playoffs.

Jim Nightengale, the Wildcats' head coach, says his team has experience, a good mesh of kids and several good pitchers.

"You have to have more than two good pitchers when you reach the state and regional playoffs," said Nightengale, who is starting his fourth year at the helm of the Wildcats. "I know we have more than two (pitchers) this year."

In 1988, "the Wildcats fin-

Kata, Kumite competition yields winners

Special to the Echo
The 1991 United States Karate Association held the "Battle of Champions" tournament Jan. 26 in Mandeville, La.

Waveland Gulf Coast Shotokan Karate Club, under the direction of black belt instructor Rannie Ladner, had eight students compete.

Competition consisted of kata and kumite. Kata is spiritual as well as physical. Each kata begins and ends with blocking techniques and consists of specific movements to be performed in a particular order. Each movement has its own meaning and function, nothing is irrelevant.

In kata competition, Ronald Storey of Bay St. Louis and Kathryn Norton of Waveland placed third. Storey competed in advanced division, with Norton competing in colored belt women's division. Steve Martinovich of Bay St. Louis placed fourth in men's brown belt division.

Kumite (fighting) competition determines the ability of the participants using fighting as a form of self-defense where the first purpose is to develop a spirit of humility. When power and humility blend, the true spirit of karate (kumite) emerges.

USM hosts four home games in '91

Four home games and four games with teams that either won or tied bowl games last season highlight the 1991 University of Southern Mississippi football schedule released today by athletic director Bill McLellan and head coach Jeff Bower.

Coming off an 8-3 regular season and a second bowl trip in three years, the Golden Eagles will open Aug. 31 at home against Delta State and play other home games against Colorado State (Sept. 21), Tulane (Oct. 19) and East Carolina (Nov. 9). USM will celebrate homecoming at the East Carolina game.

Road stops include a first ever meeting with Pittsburgh (Sept. 7), Louisville (Sept. 28), Auburn (Oct. 5), Memphis State (Oct. 12), Cincinnati (Oct. 26), Tulsa (Nov. 2) and Louisiana Tech (Nov. 16).

The Eagles will play the 1991 schedule under the direction of first year head coach Bower who called the '91 slate "a challenging one for us. I'm glad we have the fourth home game this season. I think the home-and-home series with Pittsburgh will be good for USM and its fans and the schedule as a whole is one that the players and fans alike can look forward to."

"Even though scheduling continues to be difficult as an independent, I feel that we have put together a balanced schedule for '91," said McLellan.

"With the exception of the one series of three straight road games, we have good balance in our home and road schedule. The schedule is challenging enough to provide us the opportunity to attract national attention and at the same time provides us with the opportunity to be successful from a won-lost standpoint."

The four 1990 bowl teams include Colorado State, the Freedom Bowl champ; Louisville, the Fiesta Bowl winner; Auburn, a Peach Bowl winner over Indiana; and Louisiana Tech, a team that tied Maryland in the Independence Bowl.

Delta State, Louisville,

Auburn, Memphis State, Tulane and East Carolina all return from last year's schedule. USM defeated all six of those teams during the 1990 season.

Pittsburgh is on the USM slate for the first time ever. Colorado State plays in Hattiesburg for the first time ever and only the second time ever against the Eagles. Cincinnati returns to the USM slate for the first time since 1979, Tulsa is on the schedule for the first time ever and Louisiana Tech is back on the schedule after a two-year absence.

The Golden Eagles own a winning record against six of the opponents they have played previously.

USM shows losing marks against only Colorado State (0-1), Auburn (4-14) and Cincinnati (1-3). Overall, USM won 101-57-3 (.637) career record against the 11 1991 opponents.

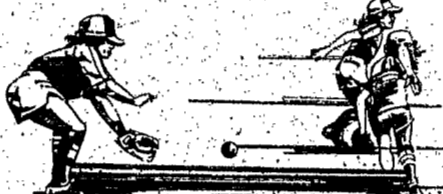

The complete schedule follows:

| Date     | Opponent           | Location         |
|----------|--------------------|------------------|
| Aug. 31  | Delta State        | Hattiesburg      |

| Sept. 21 | Colorado State     | Hattiesburg      |
| Sept. 28 | at Louisville      | Louisville, Ky.  |
| Oct. 5   | at Auburn          | Auburn, Ala.     |

SHRIMPING

The marine shrimp industry along the Gulf Coast will be the topic of the feature segment on the Monday, February 25, addition of the Mississippi Educational Television Network's "Farmweek." The program airs at 7:30 p.m., with a special rebroadcast the following morning at 6:15.

Reporter Scott Huffman will talk with shrimpers and processors about the status of Mississippi's seafood industry. The Coast's processors, many who process shrimp for as far away as China, will discuss the profitability of the industry and its future.

Also, the monthly USDA Catfish and Cattle-On-Feed Reports will be examined.

ished second in the South Division and were runners-up in the state. The Cats' 25-12 overall ledger included competition in Region 23 for the first time ever.

The next year, Nightengale used the services of nine sophomores to earn runner-up spots in both the division and the state playoffs. The 1989 Wildcats posted a 27-19 record and were featured again in Region 23 competition.

Last year, the Wildcats nailed down their last two regulation games to finish second to nemesis Gulf Coast in the South Division.

PRC, who finished 22-17 overall in 1990, was then knocked out of the state tournament after falling to North Division champ Mississippi Delta 5-4 and South Division champ Gulf Coast 10-0.

Nightengale had only four sophomores returning on his 1990 squad. Here in 1991 the PRC coach has nine sophomores including seven starters.

"I have seven starters who have been to the state tournament," said Nightengale, "and that should be a tremendous asset to our team."

Pearl River will open with a home double-header on Feb. 26. The probable starting lineup for the first game will include Doug Power of Bay St. Louis as catcher; Brett Rossler of Toledo, Ohio at third; Brady Chauvin of Baton Rouge, La. at first; Chris Charbonnet of Baton Rouge in center field; Brad Gilmore of Vidon, Texas at second; Scott Morgan of Columbia in left field and pitcher Dwayne Stockstill of Picayune on the mound.

All of the above starters are sophomores. Starting in right field will be freshman Bryan Harvey of Purvis and either Phil Fontenot of Lake Charles, La. or Jamie Williamson of Hattiesburg will get the nod at shortstop. Both are freshmen.

Joining Stockstill on the mound will be sophomore Scott Dease of Columbia, and freshmen Jason Tod of Oak Grove, James Gamble of Bayou Vista, La., Will Seymour of Bay St. Louis, Jeff Fontenot of Wakefield, La., Jamie Williamson of Hattiesburg, Jerry Soileau of Eunice, La., and Shannon Martel of Eunice.

Nightengale said the starting pitching rotation will include Stockstill, Todd and Gamble.

Nightengale said Gulf Coast, ranked 15th in the nation in a national pre-season poll, will again be the team to beat. Hinds will also be a contender according to the PRC coach.

"We had a good fall practice and we have not missed much time this spring," said Nightengale. "We have probably the best baseball complex in the league and that gives us an advantage."

Nightengale said he had 50 players try out for the team last fall. "I could have had a 100," said the PRC coach.

Second graders swap letters with soldiers stationed in Saudi Arabia

Theresa Peterson's second graders at Waveland Elementary have been corresponding with soldiers in Saudi Arabia since the mobilization of Desert Shield in the fall.

Their first letter was addressed to Marine Lance Cpl. Tony Mallini of Bay St. Louis, who is detached with Alpha Company Marine Weapons Platoon. He shared the children's letters with members of his company, who, in turn, wrote letters to the students.

The students have received samples of Emergency Ration Meals (ERM), samples of sand, post cards and Christmas cards and information about Saudi culture from their pen pals.

Letters have also been received from Army and Navy soldiers.

Excerpts from the soldiers' letters include:

"You wouldn't believe the joy you bring to each soldier as they read the letters sent to them."

"We must help them (the Kuwaitis) free their country and get their families back."

"We drink a lot of lemonade mix and Kool-aid when it gets very hot in the day. At night, it is very cold. We sleep on aluminum cots and inside sleeping bags..."

Peterson's class constructed valentines to send to Saudi Arabia and is continuing to support the soldiers with encouraging letters.

Contest Chairman, Mississippi Writers Club, P.O. Box 1278, Jackson, MS 39205

The Mississippi Writers Club was formed in 1987 by writers who saw the need to meet monthly and share their efforts with their peers.

These activities grew into annual conferences where members and non-members from Mississippi and surrounding states meet for instruction and discussion. The conference features workshops conducted by faculty members who are accomplished writers in fiction, non-fiction, poetry and other writing categories.

This year the fourth annual Writers Club Conference will be Friday and Saturday, May 24 and 25 at the Holiday Inn Medical Center in Jackson.

Each of 20 faculty members will present programs of interest to established and beginning writers alike. Each registrant can select eight hours of lectures and four hours of faculty interaction to have on-going or completed work critiqued.

For further information, write to the conference chairman at the address above.

Mississippi, Louisiana universities, industries receive space grants

NASA announced Mississippi is one of 14 states selected to receive Space Grant Program Grants, and Louisiana is one of 12 states to receive Capability Enhancement Grants from Phase II of the National Space Grant College and Fellowship Program.

The National Space Grant College and Fellowship Program was authorized by Congress in response to the need for a coordinated effort to help maintain America's preeminence in aerospace science and technology.

The program promotes partnerships and cooperation among universities, federal, state and local governments and aerospace industries to enhance technical research and to encourage aerospace and related fields to expand capabilities.

NASA Administrator Richard H. Truly said, "The 12 designated consortia along with the newly selected 26 state consortia encompass over 300 colleges, universities, nonprofit organizations, industry, national laboratories and state governments and together will have a significant educational impact throughout the nation."

"NASA and the aerospace community are committed to cooperative, measurable and long-term improvements in the nation's math and science education."

Phase II Mississippi Space Grant Consortiums are made up of the following universities and industry facilities: Jackson State University; University of Mississippi;

The Space Grant Program Grants and the Capability Enhancement Grants will each award a four-year, $150,000-per-year grant to be used by the recipients named.

Both grants require partial matching non-federal funds and will be used in part to sponsor fellowship programs for both undergraduate and graduate students.

The objective of the Space Grant Program is to form a national network to encourage cooperative programs among universities, aerospace industry and federal, state and local governments.

Besides promoting science, mathematics and technology education from elementary through university levels, the program will also promote research and public-service programs relating to aerospace.

Emphasis will be placed on recruitment and training of professionals for careers in aerospace science and technology.

NASA implemented Phase I of the program in 1989 by selecting 21 universities and consortia with notable capabilities in aerospace research, education and public service as designated Space Grant colleges and consortia.

Phase II now geographically broadens participation and includes institutions with modest aerospace activity as well as institutions with substantial NASA involvement.

Mississippi State University; University of Southern Mississippi; Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. Inc.; Sverdrup Technology Inc. and ASRM Division of GenCorp Aerojet.

Phase II Capability Enhancement Grants are made up of the following Louisiana universities: Dillard University; Louisiana State University; Baton Rouge; Loyola University;

Northeast Louisiana University; Southern University, Baton Rouge; Southern University, Shreveport; University of New Orleans;

Louisiana State University

the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Dr. Armond T. Joyce, of the Science and Technology Laboratory at John C. Stennis Space Center stated the center will join other NASA facilities across the country to interface with grant recipients providing technological information and consultation.

"The consequences of this excellent program," he noted "are felt not only at graduate and undergraduate levels but even down to secondary and elementary education programs. This consortia effectively keeps the pipeline full of scientists and engineers for the space effort that will continue into the 21st century."

We've Had The Foresight To Ensure Your Newborn's Eyesight.

Dr. Candace Collins, Pediatric Ophthalmologist

Look who we've added to our Neonatal staff: Dr. Candace Collins, Pediatric Ophthalmologist. She's here to check the eyes of your newborn. Because a lifetime of good sight begins with life at first sight.

Dr. Collins is the only Ophthalmologist in Slidell who specializes in the examination and treatment of children's eyes. And this expertise is vital, especially for premature babies, whose eyes are not fully developed at birth. Because undetected problems could eventually lead to blindness.

As a member of NorthShore's Neonatal staff, Dr. Collins will thoroughly examine and treat your baby's eyes as needed. She joins our staff Neonatologist, Dr. Marlene Buis, and a complete staff of pediatric nurses in our specially-equipped nursery. For the most complete newborn care on the north shore.

So if you're expecting a baby, come see all that NorthShore Regional Medical Center has to offer. You'll appreciate our foresight. And Dr. Collins will ensure your newborn's eyesight.

Play days

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre celebrates 45th anniversary

BY TRACI BONNEY

For some people, masquerading is strictly a Mardi Gras or Halloween tradition. For Bay St. Louis Little Theatre members, though, it's a love affair that lasts for years in some cases.

BSLLT, the state's second oldest little theater group, is celebrating its 45th anniversary this year. What started in 1946 as the brainstorm of two newcomers to the area, Mary Cannon Bell and Marie Louise Blair, grew from 28 founding members to more than 200 at one point. Currently, BSLLT has about 120 members, according to membership chair Beth Benvenuti.

cess in the community came the need for the troupe to have a playhouse of its own. However, short funds posed problems.

With its usual perseverance and panache, the theater group solved the cash shortage problem with a hurricane party, a novel idea for the time, and other fundraisers. The money raised was coupled with $800 in the group's treasury and a $3,000 loan, which gave "Playhouse in the Pines" opened its doors for the presentation of "Night of January 16."

The plays produced by BSLLT number in the hundreds and include many popular Broadway releases, musicals and original works.

People associated with the organization have fond memories of their "play days." Charter member Emily DeMontluzin said, "It was wonderful, absolutely wonderful! By the time you've been through a play with a cast, you feel like you're all blood brothers, when you might not have even known these people before."

She said her favorite play was "The Miracle Worker" in which she played Helen Keller's teacher. "It was dif-

DeMontluzin's favorite musical was "South Pacific," although she was not in that production.

She said of the theater group, "It was a very big part of the life of everyone who was active in it."

Pete Chapman, who was involved with the theater for about 15 years, agreed with DeMontluzin's comments. "We had a lot of fun," he said. "We did some good work; we put on a lot of good plays."

Frances Franckiewicz, a veteran of the BSLLT stage, said her work with the group was her first experience on stage. He talent shone through, netting her two "Louies," the BSLLT version of an "Oscar."

She said her favorite production was "Everybody Loves Opal," in which she had the leading role as Opal the bag lady.

"In fact, some people still call me Opal, believe it or not," she commented with a chuckle.

Another play she enjoyed working in was "Teahouse of the August Moon," in which she played a Japanese woman and her son, now Senator Vic Franckiewicz, played her son.

"We actually had a Jeep on the stage for that one. They had to build a ramp through the door to get the Jeep inside."

Mother and son again teamed up in "The Miracle Worker," in which they had to wear blackface, Mrs. Franckiewicz said. "It took me forever to get that stuff off."

Her daughter Franya, now Franya Ethridge, also was involved in the productions in stage decoration.

"It was a family thing for many of us," Mrs. Franckiewicz said. "They were very enjoyable years."

Carol Young, currently president of the organization, came to BSLLT in 1984 after working with other groups in school, Meridian and elsewhere. She started when Laurie K. Byrd asked her to paint a set, and became involved in acting when Mike Cuevas asked her to read a part in "The Bad Seed."

Young said, "I was new in town, and I found the theater a good way to get to know people, act out my fantasies and make long-lasting friendships.

"It's a community thing. It's not a cliqueish organization. We love it when people show up at the door to audition for the part."

Young said her main role as president is to encourage community involvement, to introduce others to the same feeling she gets from being in little theater.

"When I sit in that theater, I feel I'm a part of something good."

"THE GREAT BIG DOORSTEP"

BY FRANCES GOODRICH & ALBERT HACKETT
From The Novel Of E. P. O'Donnell

BAY ST. LOUIS LITTLE THEATRE

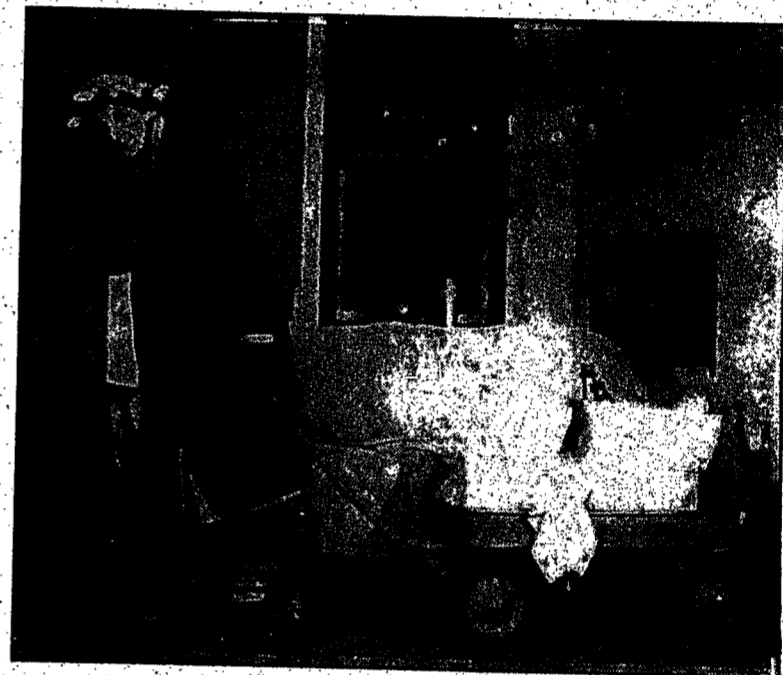

The group held its first production, "The Twelve Pound Look" by Sir James Barrie, in the Bay High auditorium. Soon afterward, BSLLT obtained permission from the school board to use a district-owned red frame building on Carroll Avenue for rehearsals and productions. After much hard work, the building was renovated in time for the production of the group's third play, "The Male Animal."

Before long, the thespians were playing multiple-night engagements to full houses. With BSLLT's growing success in the community came the need for the troupe to have a playhouse of its own. However, short funds posed problems.

On July 29, 1948, the new

BSLLT enough money to purchase a site on Boardman Avenue, where the organization's headquarters still stand.

Here's A Special Security Blanket For Your Baby.

Dr. Marlene Buis, Neonatologist.

She's a special part of the nursery at NorthShore Regional Medical Center. And she's here to insure your peace of mind. With expert care. And extra attention. To make your baby's arrival safe and secure.

About six percent of all newborns need neonatal care. So chances are, your baby probably won't need to see Dr. Buis. But we're sure that's a chance you won't want to take.

As a Neonatologist, Dr. Buis has extensive training and experience in intensive care for newborns. As a member of our staff, she offers that care right here in our specially-equipped nursery. And our nurses provide careful, continuous monitoring, to make you feel even more secure. In fact, no other hospital on the north shore can offer your baby better care.

So when you're preparing for your baby's arrival, don't forget your security blanket, Dr. Marlene Buis. You may not need her. But isn't it nice to know she's here?

PRC logs 18 percent increase in enrollment

Pearl River Community College's 18.6 percent increase of full-time Mississippi students is the largest 1990 fall semester enrollment jump of the 15 Mississippi public community-junior colleges.

According to information released by Dr. Larry Day, director of management information services of the State Board for Community and Junior Colleges, Pearl River's increase was 309 full-time Mississippi students.

Dr. Olon E. Ray, executive director of the State Board for Community and Junior Colleges, said Pearl River's record increase should also translate into an additional $210,000 in state appropriations for the 1992 fiscal year.

According to Ray's report, Gulf Coast appropriations could be down by $434,000 and Jones appropriations reduced by $446,000. Hinds stands to lose $1.37 million.

State appropriation for FY

1990 was $72.7 million, while the current 1991 fiscal year budget is $74.1 million. The Legislative Budget Office request for fiscal year 1992 is $69 million or about $5 million less.

The 15 community college's average decrease in appropriations is 6.9 percent.

Ron Holmes, PRC's business manager, said that based on the state appropriations formula, PRC could receive up to $500,000 additional funding if the legislature funded the community colleges at the $74 million figure. Pearl River registered 1,986 full-time Mississippi students for the 1990 fall semester as compared to 1,677 in 1989.

Hoech, Ladner named CEHS Pepsi students

Coast Episcopal High School has announced the selection of Dominik Hoech and John Ladner as Pepsi Students of the Month for December.

Dominik Hoech is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Manfred Hoech of Bergesch Gladbach, Germany. A junior exchange student in the ASPECT Exchange Program, he was living with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kliner of Long Beach. Dominik spent the fall semester at Coast Episcopal and returned to Germany to continue his schooling in late January.

John Ladner is in the seventh grade and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ladner of Pass Christian. He will play tennis for the Raiders in the spring.

Each month the faculty selects one student from the junior high school and one from the senior high for this honor. The selection is based on performance, effort, sportsmanship, cooperation, self-control and initiative.

The students are presented T-shirts from Pepsi and are recognized in the school for the month.

Computer lab open house planned for Bay Catholic

Moms and Dads of Chapter I students at Bay Catholic Elementary School will have a firsthand look at their children's specialized computer classes during today's open house at the school.

Parents of participating Chapter I pupils can observe their children's work in math, reading and language skills, but all interested parents may visit the computer lab during the open house, said Helen Kidd, Chapter I technician at Bay Catholic.

The tutorial programs are individually designed for each child. BCE's program is included in the Bay-Waveland School District network, under the direction of Debbie Cox.

The students' work is monitored to determine the rate of progress, said Kidd, who also adds her own motivational rewards such as stickers and student of the month awards.

Chapter I students receive their specialized instruction daily, and kindergarten students have been included this year for the first time, Kidd added.

Sometimes, It's Important To See The World Through A Child's Eyes.

No one knows that better than Dr. Candace Collins. She's a Pediatric Ophthalmologist. So she specializes in the testing and treatment of children's eyes. And she does this from a child's point of view.

Dr. Collins knows that, to a child, a visit to the eye doctor can be a frightening experience. So she's done everything possible to change that.

Dr. Collins' waiting room is a playroom. And her eye exams are child's play. Because instead of looking at eye charts, your infant or toddler will watch a special puppet show. It's a process called Preferential Looking, developed specifically for pre-verbal children. To your older child, Dr. Collins' pediatric testing equipment resembles the sci-fi technology they've seen in movies. So eye exams are fun.

Your child's eyesight is a precious gift. Ensure it. With regular eye exams by Slidell's only Pediatric Ophthalmologist, Dr. Candace Collins. She could help your child see a world of difference.
